While designing the Resort 2023 collection at Kith, designer Ronnie Fieg decided it was time to go in a new direction. This collection is the embodiment of luxe fabrics and classic silhouettes to ease into a more mature style.

Kith revealed their resort 2023 collection late this October with a twist from their others. Fieg stated “I’m 40 now, my taste in fabrics and fits has changed over the years,” while at Kith’s sprawling studio in Williamsburg. This collection consists of luscious fabrics and soft Italian leather. You can easily tell with this collection that comfort, style, and sophistication were the objective, and Kith totally nailed it. Some pieces could be easily mistaken as vintages, such as the green patchwork vest and the green trousers shown in look 7. The collection features teddy coats, soft shearlings, and felted wools that are sure to look lush to the eye but to get a true understanding of the collection you have to feel it. “I want to be known for our fabrics,” Designer Fieg said about the collection. “There is substance to these fabrics, nothing feels 'fast,' and some of them are very expensive, and we take a hit on some of the margins. Because everybody should be able to buy into some of these fabrics, you know? It's important for us." The collection was perfectly complimented by the choice of venue. The show was held outdoors on a picture-perfect fall day with a breathtaking view of a lake in the background. The changing of the leaves highlights the color palette and truly lets the collection shine. Each piece will age like fine wine, and you will want to get your hands on it!
